On Hancock Storm Damages

Washington disaster official taking another look

By EDGAR PEREZ
Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Hancock County leaders are expected to meet this morning with an official of the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration (FDDA) at Waveland Resort Inn on the possibility of federal aid to restore Beach Boulevard.

"We feel our chances are still good to secure federal assistance in repairing the damages we suffered on April 22 and 23," said Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett last week.

Bennett and Donn Murray, Hancock County Board of Supervisors appointee to the Governor's Disaster Committee, met Tuesday with Gov. Cliff Finch, Lt. Gov. Evelyn Gandy and Peter Hall of FDDA in Jackson to present an appeal on behalf of the county and its municipalities for storm damage relief.

Murray said Saturday the supervisors, in addition, last week forwarded a resolution on the matter to Mississippi's U.S. Senators John C. Stennis and Thad Cochran, and U.S. Rep. Trent Lott of the Fifth Congressional District.

Stated to join the local officials today at an 8 a.m. breakfast meeting is

County school board warned of deficiencies as early as 1975

By RICH ADAMS
The Hancock County School Board Saturday adopted a resolution calling for a corrected $3.8 million school bond issue to build a new senior high school south of I-10 and a new elementary school at the Hancock North Central Center.

Superintendent Terry Randolph said the board formally adopted the resolution so it could be presented to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors Monday morning at a 9 a.m. meeting.

Randolph also produced a letter from former Hancock North Central Principal J.A. O'Neal dated June 16, 1975 citing a need for construction to retain accreditation.

The letter was addressed to then Superintendent K.G. McCarthy and the school board, and indicated accreditation was in danger as far back as 1975.

"In his letter to the board, O'Neal says he is facing 'a critical situation' at the junior and senior high schools because of an increase of 109 students over the 1974 enrollment.

"With our present facilities and staff, we cannot possibly meet accreditation requirements," O'Neal's letter reads.

"We strongly appeal to you to alleviate this situation before accreditation of our school is affected," the letter continues.

O'Neal requested the following improvements be made at the schools:

—Three sections of English, three sections of math, three hours daily guidance counselor, and two special education classes;

—Additional teaching needs: one English teacher, one math or science teacher, and two special education teachers;

—Classroom needs: Three for academic subjects; two for special education, one for health physical education and safety and one for study hall with the capacity of 80 students;

—Other needs: cafeteria space, 150 additional lockers, desks, tables and chairs, books, restrooms, water fountains, transportation, and office space for part-time counselors," the letter read.

Randolph said Saturday the needs listed in the last paragraph of the letter have been fulfilled, with the exception of the new restrooms.

He said the letter was part of official school board minutes dated July 2, 1975.

"They had a problem then, and that problem will continue until a bond issue is passed," Randolph said Saturday.

In other business at its Saturday meeting, HNC Principal Thad Haskins presented the board with copies of a revised student handbook for the school, which the board members will consider for approval.

Haskins noted the curriculum at the high school has increased, four new

Ms. Cuevas tells plans for election

Alice G. Cuevas, 44, Bay St. Louis, has announced her candidacy for District Four Justice Court judge.

The Chatham, Ala. native is the operator of a pre-trial investigative service where she is an investigator.

She graduated from Washington County High School in Ala. and attended the University of Law in Little Falls, New Jersey.

She holds a degree in legal investigation and is a licensed legal investigator.

She and her husband, Joseph (Joe Joe) Cuevas, live on the shores of the Jourdan River.

They have four children: Terrie, 25; Tracy, 14; and Joey and Joetta, 2.

"I will hear what people say," Mrs. Cuevas said upon announcing her candidacy.

"I will listen—without truth, there can be no justice; and without justice, there can be no truth," she added.

Students to present beach safety proposal

Kevin Atwell and Carlos Lozano

By LESLIE WILLIAMS
Two Red Cross-accredited, advanced life-savers plan to seek funds from Hancock County Board of Supervisors for salaries of a life guard patrol in the area of Gulfside Methodist Assembly in Waveland where some 24 persons have drowned in the past several years.

The pair, Kevin Atwell and Carlos Lozano, 17-year-old residents of Waveland, will present their life guard proposal at tomorrow's 9 a.m. board meeting at the Courthouse.

The two St. Stanislaus seniors feel a life guard patrol is necessary for prevention of future drownings at the location adjacent to Buchanan State Park.

They said their beach patrol plan would provide surveillance of a 1.5 mile area in front of the Assembly Center for a 10-week period on Saturdays and Sundays beginning in July and ending in mid-September.

"The week ends would be divided into shifts," Lozano explained. "Two life guards would patrol the beach work day and two others would patrol the remainder of the day."

A Saturday would be 8 a.m. and end at sunset, Lozano stated.

They also probably would work Friday's on holidays like July 4 and Labor Day Monday (Lozano added) was plement their plan.

"Mayor John Longo said the City of Waveland will provide us with equipment for the project, if supervisors give us the money for salaries," Lozano noted.

The young men say equipment needed includes one pair of binoculars, two torpedo buoys, two reels of 50-foot nylon rope (one for each buoy), one life saving board, two two-way walkie-talkies, and two first-aid kits.

"We will also need a small life guard station to be constructed for storing the equipment," Atwell added.

The students estimate cost for life guard salaries for the project at $1,500.

"How much is a life worth," queried Atwell, "it's up to them (supervisors) now."

Gas shortage hits county

By RICH ADAMS
The gasoline crunch is making its effect known in Hancock County as service stations are closing early on Saturdays and numerous filling stations have been out of gasoline since last week.

Long lines at pumps are signs of the gas shortage in the county, and "no gas" signs were visible at more than one gas station Saturday as refineries cut their production and the federal government establishes allocations for service stations.

Stennis FBO sub-lease Commission approves

By LESLIE WILLIAMS
Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission Thursday authorized Aero International, Inc. of Gulfport to sub-lease operation of Stennis Airport to Bay Aviation, Inc.

The assignment of Aero's lease as fixed-base operator at Stennis International is subject to approval of the County Board of Supervisors.

"In effect," commission member David McDonald said, "Bay Aviation Inc. has sublet from Aero," however, if there is any default in contract terms Aero will be responsible.

Bay Aviation's sub-lease incorporates the same provisions as the Aero lease and runs for the same duration, Commission Director Wilson Wehre said.

Andy Ewing, vice president of Aero, is president and owner of Bay Aviation, along with his wife.

Ewing said he has submitted his resignation from Aero which will

Rutledge, Jones wed at First Baptist Church

First Baptist Church, Bay St. Louis, was the setting for the wedding Saturday morning, May 26, of Barbara Gail Rutledge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Troy H. Rutledge of Bay St. Louis, and Kevin Arnott Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Jones of Shreveport, La.

The Rev. Nathan Barber performed the double ring ceremony. A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Walter McCraw of Pass Christian.

The altar, decorated with baskets of spring flowers, was flanked by tall Areca palms and potted daisy mums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a candlelight crepe chiffon, matinee length dress with a petal skirt. The dress featured a V-neck, caplet sleeves and a self fabric corded tie. She carried a cascade bouquet of silk carnations and white and Sonia roses.

Mrs. Larry Rupp, Bay St. Louis, attended the bride as matron of honor and Mr. Jones served his son as best man. Ushers were Don Rutledge, Bay St. Louis; brother of the bride, and Keith Jones, Baton Rouge, La., brother of the groom.

The matron of honor wore an apricot silk crepe A-line dress and carried a cascade bouquet of white and peach carnations.

Mrs. Rutledge wore a cream knit dress and the mother of the groom wore a rose silk crepe print gown. Both mothers wore silk Sonia rose corsages.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

The bride's table, overlaid with a white lace cloth, held a three-tier wedding cake decorated with candlelight spun sugar roses and miniature peach flowers. An arrangement of silk rose buds in matching colors adorned the top tier. Fern and Sonia roses encircled the cake.

Mrs. Perry Gibson presided at the cake table and Mrs. Ross Ambrose at the punch bowl.

For her wedding trip to New Orleans, the bride chose a two-piece off white suit with matching accessories and a corsage of white silk roses.

The couple will reside in Shreveport, La.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Calhoun, Mrs. Susan Denney, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Scott, Mrs. Pamela McDonald, Mrs. Watson Butts and daughter Lea Ann, Mrs. Jennie McCaleb and Mr. and Mrs. John Zimmerman.

On the eve of the wedding the groom's parents entertained with an after rehearsal party at the Felicity Street home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McDonald Jr. Assisting in entertaining guests were Mr. and Mrs. Donald and Mr. and Mrs. Lenny Rupp.

Duke, Shea exchange vows at Christ Episcopal

Mrs. Eva Virginia Duke and Maurice Joseph Shea were joined by their family and friends in sharing their joy at the beginning of their new life together when they exchanged marriage vows Saturday, June 9.

The ceremony was at Christ Episcopal Church with Rev. Charles Johnson officiating.

Giving Mrs. Duke in marriage were her two sons,

Winston Duke from Denver, Colorado, and Charles Duke from Simpsonville, South of Carolina.

A reception followed at Mr. Shea's best man was his son John Shea from Metairie.

Minchew wedding set in Houston, Texas

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Ehlers of Houston, Tex., announce the engagement of their daughter, Catherine Ann, to David Lee Minchew, son of Mrs. Louise Minchew and Frank A. Minchew of Houston, Tex.

The bride-elect, a graduate of Westchester High School, is presently employed as a secretary with Southwest Industries, Houston.

The prospective groom who attended school in Bay St. Louis, is employed as an electrician with Hoskins Electric Company, Houston. Miss Ehlers will have as her attendants Mary Cawthon as maid of honor and Carrie Vandivier, bridesmaid, both of Houston.

Mr. Minchew will have Keith Aubert of Waveland as best man. Brothers Danny Minchew, Bay St. Louis, and Frank Minchew, Houston, will serve as groomsmen and ushers.

The wedding will be solemnized at 6 p.m. June 23 in Memorial Lutheran Church in Houston.

SENIOR CENTER

We had our games day Monday with about 80 seniors participating. Our winners were Emma Moran, Happy Days Ice Cream; Lucille Reese, The Golden Parrot; Geneva Johnston, TG&Y Waveland; Milton Inch, Hair Port; Mary Green, Princess Dress Shop; Celine Fair-conature, Otasco; Lucien Vontoure, Recipe Converter donated by Marie Elchorn; Catherine Gallivan, Bay-Waveland Tire Co.; Mary Getad, Otasco.

Everyone was a winner that attended because of the fun, fellowship, and refreshments. Thank John and Roland Gallivan, Frank Geraci, and Ethel Dornain, RSVP Volunteers.

Don't forget our monthly birthday party Monday, June 25, 1:30 p.m.

All who have had a birthday this month will be honored and will draw for prizes donated by our kind merchants.

Again, everyone is a winner with the cakes donated by Peoples Federal Savings and Loan and made by Mrs. Inez Favre, plus the extra homemade cakes made by our own very excellent bakers.

Anyone interested in attending mass during the week may participate here at the Center on Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. Father Kellar from St. Rose is our usual celebrant.

Brother Charles Clark, Assembly of God in Waveland, leads a Bible class on Thursday at 10 a.m. All interested in this spiritual growth class are welcome.

SENIOR CITIZEN CLUB

Joe Petta, president, reports a meeting slated Tuesday, June 19 at 10 a.m. at the Center. "We are welcoming any new members who wish to join," he said.

"Dues are $1 per year, so come and join us and participate in our activities and lend us your talents," he added.

"Our public breakfast will be June 21st from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m. This is our money making project and we invite all of you to participate by either helping or buying breakfast here. The price is $1 for seniors and $1.25 for others."

Menu: bacon, eggs, grits, jelly, and biscuits. Cooks will be Mrs. Esther Oschmann, Lela Curry, Edmee Cagle. Proceeds will go for club activities and projects.

WAVELAND
Don't forget to come to get your blood pressure taken on Tuesday mornings at the Civic Center and, while there, enjoy the biscuits and coffee.

SPECIAL REPORT
I attended a Board meeting in Jackson of the Department of Public Welfare. This was arranged for me by our State Representative, Mr. J. P. Compretta, after I talked with him about the undue amount of paperwork that has been inflicted on our office.

We are very fortunate to have Mr. Michael Haas as the newest member of the State Welfare Board and I can tell you, it sure helps. He had great things to say about our Center and the things that are done in Hancock County.

With back up like that, the Welfare Board paid a lot more attention to my requests. Sometimes, it seems, the people who are not providing a service do not understand the hardship they inflict when they make up new and longer forms.

They try to eliminate poor programs by adding more forms. Ridiculous - they just need to close down the cheaters and assist honest programs.

Anyhow, I will let you know if my visit does any good other than the few concessions they allowed at this meeting. We can use ditto marks, stamps, and Xerox some of our forms.

FUNDING

Another one of our Welfare Department requirements is that part of our funding comes through the Department of Public Welfare. They dispense the Federal money (and charge us 6 percent). Our local United Way, cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, and our Board of Supervisors provide the matching local money. We are protesting the 6 percent administrative fee.

RSVP
Welcome back Theresa James. We always miss staff when they are gone. She must attend a regional meeting in Atlanta June 17-21st.

All of the Southern States RSVP directors will be meeting to discuss future directions of RSVP, training, and sharing of new ideas.

You can be sure that when any one from here goes to a meeting - they know we are there! Theresa sure does brag about our seniors who volunteer as well as about the cooperation and coordination we have here.

She says that most RSVP's don't work as well together with their other senior organizations so they never do as much as we do.

PEARLINGTON REPORTS

By IRMA CUEVAS

We sure had a nice trip last Thursday.

Some 28 Seniors went by bus to New Orleans and over the Huey Long Bridge.

We then went up to Donaldsonville where we had lunch. The return trip was by way of the River Road back to New Orleans and then on home.

The scenery and weather were beautiful. Everyone enjoyed the two donut and coffee stops going and come as well as the fellowship together.

Pearlington seniors - we meet on Thursday at 1 p.m. at the Civic Center.

Come join us for arts and crafts. For details call me at 533-7945.

We wish every success to Wilma Miller and the Senior Aides in their new senior employment office at the Waveland Civic Center.

The University Press of Mississippi has just completed publication of "Amen-Brother Ben: A Mississippi Collection of Children's Rhymes," by University of Southern Mississippi English professor Dr. Marice Brown.

The collection of childhood records, rhymes and jingles of children in the state from ages four to 14, the most intense period of group play and the greatest period of peer pressure on speech, according to Brown.

Included are count-outs, to determine the it-of childhood games; jump rope rhymes that little girls used to keep count; autographs like "Roses are Red" and jeers, taunts and other miscellany.

The book which lists about 400 childhood verses and variations also gives some of the history and meaning of the rhymes.

Count-outs, Brown explains, are a type of lottery and jump rope rhymes often reflect the physical and social changes taking place in the child, especially young girls.

Brown, who was at USM for 17 years, retired this year. She spent ten years collecting the material from all over the state and she says that childhood, though it changes very slowly, may be fading from "playgrounds" due to television and more supervised playgrounds.

The books for $5.00 are available at either local bookstores or from the University Press of Mississippi, 3826 Ridgewood Road, Jackson, MS. 39211.

FDA's Len Bracewell of Washington, D.C.

Murray said Saturday he received word late Friday of Bracewell's visit, which is scheduled to include a "windshield" inspection of the most heavily damaged sections of Beach Boulevard between Clermont Harbor and Market Street in Waveland and from the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club north to the end of the road.

Murray, who also serves as county and state aid road inspector for Hancock County, said the Cedar Point section of Beach Boulevard has been undermined by wave action and is in danger of caving-in in certain places.

He estimated some $2 million will be necessary to put Beach Boulevard back in first-class condition, adding some $600,000 in damages was inflicted on the artery by the April storm.

Bennett described the April storm which wreaked havoc in this area for two consecutive days as "a small tropical storm which came through here."

Murray noted if the storm had occurred after June 1, opening of the hurricane season, "it would have been tracked as a tropical depression which is the forerunner of a hurricane."

Data gathered from the Mobile office of the National Weather Service by the two officials to be presented in Jackson on their visit Tuesday showed wind gusts of 55 miles-per-hour and tides three to four feet above normal during the storm, Murray reported.

"Hancock County up to now has been considered for aid along with those counties seriously affected by the coincidental flood of the Pearl River, and we just didn't qualify for help under those guidelines," Murray explained.

He said he and Bennett successfully proved to the state and federal officials in Jackson that Hancock is deserving of special consideration because of the nature of the April storm.

The two were armed with a collection of photographs from the Echo's file on the storm and others made by Murray as well as engineering data and the reports from the National Weather Service to support their case in Jackson Tuesday.

"We also made it clear there is imminent danger Beach Boulevard might have to be closed in certain places which would seriously affect residents of those areas to say nothing of Buccaneer State Park and all the commercial and sport fishermen who use Bayou Cadet," Murray pointed out.

Bennett said he bases his optimism, in part, on the fact Hancock County has finally received aid on its spring flood damages after making a third appeal.

The officials' trip to Jackson Tuesday represented Hancock County's second attempt to secure help with spring weather related damages in this area.

Some 11 homeowners who suffered structural damages to their homes in the Pearl River area as a result of the East Pearl River flood the week of April 29 have been refused aid by Washington officials of the Small Business Administration.

SBA guidelines call for at least 25 homes and/or businesses to be damaged before relief can be granted.

Governor Finch assured me he will do everything in his power to get Hancock County declared a disaster area so that Beach Boulevard and the seawall can be restored to acceptable condition," Bennett said upon his return from Jackson.

"And I believe if we are declared a disaster area on the basis of the April storm, the SBA will then be in a position to aid those people who were affected by the later flooding of the East Pearl," the mayor feels.

Bennett noted the flooding of the Pearl and East Pearl and the damages to Beach Boulevard were two unrelated events, a fact which was not known by state and federal officials prior to the Jackson visit by himself and Murray last week.

"But even though these two incidents occurred in different time frames, I believe if we are declared a disaster area, anyone in the county who suffered weather-related damages will be in a strong position to get federal help," Bennett elaborated.

Murray said in addition to himself and Bennett, he hopes Waveland Mayor John Longo Jr., members of the board of supervisors, Civil Defense Director Robert Boudin, and State Rep. J. P. Compretta would attend the Sunday morning meeting.

Cruthirds battled for improved canal

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Private funeral services for Leo Jason Cruthirds Jr., 59, were Tuesday morning.

Graveside services were conducted at National Cemetery at the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Biloxi by Chief Chaplain E.W. Holmes. Cruthirds, a resident of Shoreline Park, died Saturday, June 9, 1979.

He was featured in an article October 26, 1978 in The Sea Coast Echo titled, "Waterfront homes now border stagnant ditch."

He had complained a waterway behind his home, parallel to Hwy. 603, was becoming a "big stagnant ditch—a breeding ground for snakes, mosquitos and disease."

"I love the place (his home)," Cruthirds had said in October when he began his story by telling of the lady next door who motivated him to contact the Echo for aid in acquiring waterflow.

"The lady next door almost cries everytime she sees me in the backyard, because of that ditch developing in our backyards," he explained.

"You see," he continued, "the lady next-door's husband, before he died built some steps that led down to the water behind their house and every day she used to go crabbing."

"She always caught a few crabs, now and then—but now she catches nothing," he lamented.

Cruthirds had said a culvert had been placed across Avenue B preventing water from flowing behind his home and other homes nearby.

The deceased had said the "ditch" behind his home had been described as a waterway on his official subdivision plat. Cruthirds had hoped the culvert under Avenue B would be removed and the water would once again flow through the canal behind his home, but he never witnessed the removal.

Before he died he learned the culvert would never be removed and the street would eventually be paved over it.

Survivors include his wife, Dorothy Cruthirds, Bay St. Louis, and a sister, Mildred Cruthirds of Metairie, La.

A native of Gulfport and a resident of Bay St. Louis and Slidell, La., Cruthirds was retired from the U.S. Navy. He served as third mate with the U.S. Merchant Marine.

Empty pumps at Bay St. Louis gas station

Shortage.....

Service Station on US-90 in Bay St. Louis, has been out of gasoline since June 9 with no secure promise of another allocation arriving this week, according to a spokesman for that station.

"We've been out of gas since last Saturday at 6 p.m., and the company keeps promising to send us more," the station worker said.

"We were told we would get some gas by Friday, but Friday came and went with no delivery," he added.

"We are supposed to get some Tuesday," he optimistically said, adding the station is still open for mechanical repairs.

Charles Williams of Williams' Spur Service on US-90 in Bay St. Louis said he has imposed a $10 limit on gas and blames the federal and state governments for the apparent shortage.

"If I get some gas Tuesday, I will be fine. If not, I will probably be out of gas for the rest of the month," Williams said Saturday.

"I know the federal government is behind the shortage," Williams explained.

"If the federal government tells the refineries to cut their allocations to me by 30 percent, they have to do it," he continued.

"I have been in the business 11 years. When a refinery is operating 100 percent and then the oil companies cut them to 87 percent, that's shorts me 13 percent," Williams lamented.

"Then the federal government tells the refineries to cut the allocation 30 percent, that is a 53 percent reduction to me," he continued.

"The state is as crooked as the federal government. I get 7,200 gallons of gas a delivery," he explained.

Williams said he pays state and county taxes in excess of $1,200 per delivery.

Breakdown of his taxes shows: Seawall taxes, $233; state taxes, $703 and a five percent Mississippi sales tax, $281.

"That is not including the four-cent-per-gallon federal tax," he said.

"I buy my gas cheaper than the big oil companies, such as Exxon, Texaco, and Chevron, but they get more sales taxes," Williams continued.

"The state is getting rich off of the gas shortage, and the ones responsible are the locally-elected state representatives and state government officials," he added.

Other stations were reportedly closing early on Saturday as gas supplies ran short.

A spokesman from Diamondhead Chevron on the I-10 exit in Hancock COUNTY SAID HE WAS CLOSING AT 3:15 P.M. SATURDAY BECAUSE HE HAD SOLD HIS QUOTA OF GAS AND NEEDED SOME FOR MONDAY.

He said he charges 99.9 cents a gallon for premium and "people still buy it like it was water."

He reported received a 8,000 gallon Saturday, June 9, and was down to 1,700 gallons by closing time.

"By that Monday I was out of gas," he said.

Scafield Brothers P&D Service on US-90 at Washington Road in Bay St. Louis was closing at 3:30 p.m. Saturday because it had sold its quota of 2,000 gallons, according to a spokesman from that station.

"We have to close early or we will run out before Monday," that spokesman said.

Charles Perniciaro's Amoco Station on US-90 at Washington Road in Bay St. Louis was limiting sales to $10 maximum, according to a station worker.

"I don't know when our next delivery will be," the spokesman said Saturday.

Accreditation.....

courses being added and additional sections of existing courses being formed.

The principal said art II, geology, marine biology, and french will be offered to students during the 1979-1980 school year.

He also proposed the minimum credits required for graduation be established at 18 instead of the existing 17, beginning with students entering ninth grade in August.

Haskins is proposing English credits be raised from three to four in order to graduate.

Haskins also told the board an increase in specialized home economic class enrollment has occurred, with more students enrolling in interior decorating, family living, child care, money management, and living skills.

Haskins also told the board to hire an additional home economic teacher to handle the increased enrollment.

Haskins also told the board a new policy in the school system was being implemented. All students to be admitted to the school system will have to be interviewed by the school office, obtain a parking ticket, and show proof of operators license and

Narrow row soybean planting cuts costs

By MIKE WINDHAM
Extension Service

This year, it's already too late for soybean producers to change. But here's some news about one man who changed his methods last year. He's excited about narrow row soybeans this year.

Larry Blocker of Oktibbeha County farms 1,500 acres. About 95 percent of his crop is planted in eight-inch-wide rows. He uses a grain drill for planting, and this will be his second crop following five years of conventional row cropping.

Blocker started farming in 1970, using 150 acres of family land. Today, he farms on rented land in several parts of Oktibbeha County. Last year, he produced just about the same number of beans as he had in previous years, but he didn't have to work as hard.

"We've had no problems. I've been satisfied. It's been simpler and easier to plant narrow row soybeans. We're wholeheartedly for it, just from the standpoint of having more time to manage instead of just seeing how hard we could work," says Blocker.

There were other reasons for making the change. Narrow row beans mean fewer trips over the land. That spells less tractor time and less compaction of Blocker's soil.

Since he wouldn't be needing his cultivators any more, he was able to sell them and use the money to reduce his total equipment investment.

He also sold his regular planters and replaced them with seed drills for about the same amount of money.

"It seemed like, with the cultivator system, we were always working hard to cultivate on time and get the number of acres covered that we needed to cover every day.

It seemed like a continuous headache," he adds.

Now, by cutting out the cultivation, Blocker and his men are able to use wide chemical booms and spray herbicides for weed control. This requires less diesel fuel. Also, by not cultivating, he doesn't plow the moisture out of the soil. He thinks the narrow row crop has made labor scheduling easier.

Blocker says he chose narrow row seed drills over broadcast soybean production because he felt the drills would offer more precision planting.

"Mainly, we felt like the drill would put the seeds where they need to be for correct germination," says the young Oktibbeha county farmer.

One of the common problems with narrow row soybeans is weed control. Unlike conventional row farming, where you can cultivate the soil for weed control, narrow rows prohibit any type of cultivation once the plants start growing.

Costly herbicides are used for weed control.

Blocker says last year, though, he had less weed problems than in the years he planted his crops in regular rows.

"We have more time to manage our practices and get these practices done on time than with conventional rows," he says.

Extension Service-Soybean Specialist Dr. Wayne Jordan says narrow row and broadcast soybean production will increase in the future.

He says the soybean is a flexible plant that allows many different ways of planting. The plant will adapt itself and produce when planted in rows from 6 inches apart to 40 inches apart.

Dr. Jordan says new herbicides allow narrow row planting to work. He also warns that this method of soybean farming takes more management than conventional row crop farming.

"It's up to the producer, though, to look at requirements for each system and decide which is best for his particular operation. You must consider your labor. Some land in Mississippi can't afford to be cultivated in wide rows," adds Dr. Jordan.

This summer may be the time for you to find someone who is planting soybeans in narrow rows. Keep an eye on his operation and see how his crop does.

Compare it with your crop. The rising costs of fuel and labor make narrow row crop production worth learning about.

State veterinarian moves against Brucellosis spread

Since cattle prices have increased, there is an increasing demand for cattle. Recognizing that the disease, Brucellosis, increases with increased cattle movements, the Mississippi Board of Animal Health has placed the following regulations on cattle, according to Dr. Harvey P. McGorry, state veterinarian.

Effective June 1, 1979 the owner or management of special stocker cattle sales shall notify the State Veterinarian's office in writing two weeks prior to the sale, so that a livestock inspector will be present during the check-in and testing of the cattle, and whatever other responsibilities needed.

Also effective on June 1 the testing requirements that cattle must meet at all approved markets will apply to all cattle sold, offered for sale, traded, given away, or moved for any purpose of change of ownership. The burden of satisfying the testing requirements for Brucellosis for a change of ownership shall be upon the person, firm, or cooperation offering the test eligible cattle for sale and the person, firm, or cooperation that purchases the cattle.

This means that it is the seller's responsibility to ask for test results.

The third change is the definition of a herd.

The new definition is: A herd is all cattle under common ownership or supervision, that are grouped on one or more parts of any single premises (lot, farm or ranch) or on two or more premises geographically separated but which have had an interchange movement, or contact at any time.

Such contract shall be accepted as fact unless otherwise established by the owner and consistent with the findings of the epidemiologic investigation.

Groups of cattle under multiple ownership on common premises, such as community pastures, grazing association allotments, etc., shall also be considered as a herd.

For brucellosis eradication purposes, such herds shall include all other groups of cattle owned by those persons unless the epidemiologic investigation establishes that association has not occurred.

It is hoped that these three changes will help reduce the spread of Brucellosis and will prevent cattle from purchasing the disease at the time they purchase cattle.

MISSISSIPPI WEEKLY WEATHER REPORT

Week ending: June 10

WEATHER SUMMARY

(National Weather Service)

The first two days brought rain across the state. Monday was characterized by clear skies but rain again moved into the area and covered central and southeast Mississippi mid-week. The end of the week was clear, temperatures were below normal except on the coast.

Jackson recorded a 3.24 inches rainfall Tuesday. Low temperature at Oxford 56 degrees on Tuesday and high temperature at Wiggins was 94 degrees Friday. Weekend was clear and warm until a cold front moved through on Sunday leaving up to 1.5 inches of rain across the state.

CROP SUMMARY: Rain continued to slow planting progress and hamper weed control in early planted crops.

Soil moisture supplies were surplus to excessive except in the southern one-third of the state where supplies were rated mostly adequate. An average of 2.6 days was suitable for fieldwork compared to 1.6 days last week and 2.0 days for the same week last year.

Soybeans were 47 percent planted, well behind both last year's 67 percent and the 5-year average of 64 percent.

About 35 percent of the acreage was up to a stand compared to 54 percent last year and 52 percent average. The crop was in good to fair condition.

About 98 percent of the cotton acreage was up to a stand compared to 98 percent last year. About 93 percent of the acreage was up to a stand compared to 96 percent last year. Fourteen percent of the acreage was in the silking stage compared to 8 percent last year. Condition of the crop was rated good.

Rice planting was 97 percent complete. Last year at this time planting was generally complete and the 5-year average for the date is 98 percent. About 90 percent of the acreage was up to a stand compared to 98 percent last year and 96 percent average. The crop was in fair to good condition.

Sorghum was 81 percent planted compared to last year's 66 percent and the average of 66 percent.

Peanuts were 94 percent planted.

Winter wheat was in good condition with 80 percent of the acreage ripe compared to 88 percent last year. About 17 percent of the acreage was harvested compared to 10 percent last year and 17 percent average.

Small grain and corn were in good condition with 80 percent of the acreage ripe compared to 88 percent last year. About 17 percent of the acreage was harvested compared to 10 percent last year and 17 percent average.

percent planted compared to last year's 75 percent and the average of 74 percent.

Peaches were 6 percent harvested compared to 4 percent last year and 11 percent average. The crop was in good to fair condition.

Hay crops were 21 percent harvested compared to last year's 29 percent and the average of 27 percent.

Pastures were in good condition.

Supplies of diesel and gasoline were rated adequate to tight while L.P. Gas supplies were adequate.

"COMMENTS"

CALHOUN CO. "Fields were beginning to dry by the weekend. Most cotton and other crops are in bad need of cultivation. Some hay has rotted in the field."

LEE CO. "Cotton and corn showing stress from excess water. Need to get in fields as soon as possible."

SUNFLOWER CO. "Cotton needs plowing and post-direct spraying. Rice needs propanil for grass and weed control. Soybeans need planting and wheat needs harvesting. Too wet to do any. Dry conditions needed!"

WARREN CO. "Farmers are hoping waters will recede and land get dry enough to finish planting soybeans."

MARION CO. "Disease problems in truck crops - cucumbers, peppers, watermelons, tomatoes."

LAUDERDALE CO. "Baling hay, harvesting truck crops and peaches."

MISSISSIPPI MARKET NEWS

LIVESTOCK SLAUGHTER

April 1979

Livestock slaughter during April totaled 169,800 head weighing 50,256,000 pounds live weight. The Mississippi Crop and Livestock Reporting Service announced today. This is 31,300 head and 2,006,000 pounds live weight above April, 1978.

The April slaughter, consisted of 15,500 cattle weighing 13,704,000 pounds live weight, 41,000 calves weighing 4,120,000 pounds live weight, 113,300 hogs weighing 35,940,000 pounds live weight. The average live weight per head of animals slaughtered was: Cattle 885, calves 361, and hogs 315 pounds.

YOU AND YOUR PET

Originally bred as laboratory animals, gerbils, hamsters and guinea pigs are becoming quite popular as household pets. They are inexpensive, clean and easy to care for.

The gerbil is the smallest of the trio, and resembles a small brown mouse with a long, fur-tipped tail. A desert animal by nature, the gerbil has an amazing capacity to conserve water and is rarely seen drinking fluids. Gerbils are very quick-moving and happiest when kept with others of their own kind.

A hamster is somewhat larger than a gerbil, with plump, rounded body and a short, stumpy tail. A hamster is quite happy living alone and will be most active at night.

These rodents are best known for their habit of stuffing expandable cheek pouches with food, and then storing the food away under bedding. Occasionally, the entire contents of a food dish will disappear overnight in this fashion.

The guinea pig is an alert, docile animal about eight inches long that may have a short or long-haired coat. It is most active during the day and has a characteristic low whistle.

Most rodents thrive on commercially pelleted rodent chow supplemented twice a week by fruit, vegetables or greens. Diets composed entirely of mixed bird seed are not satisfactory and may lead to constipation or vitamin deficiencies.

The supplement of fresh greens and fruit is especially important to the guinea pig because it cannot manufacture vitamin C internally like most pets.

Without a steady supply of vitamin C in the form of cabbage or fruit, the guinea pig develops bleeding gums, an unsteady gait and a reluctance to walk.

Besides the proper food, pet rodents need a constant supply of clean, fresh water. A hanging water bottle that dispenses only a drop or two at a time is a good investment. Many rodents do not drink well from a dish and may catch pneumonia from walking through it.

When you choose housing for these pets, remember that guinea pigs and hamsters are strong for their size. Provided a latched doorway or a top that is heavy enough to prevent the pet from nudging it off.

Many rodents, especially hamsters, escape from converted aquariums by climbing up water bottles or large exercise wheels.

Since your pet is a burrowing animal, provide a pile of woodshavings, shredded paper or kitty litter for nest building.

These materials also absorb surplus moisture and will aid in keeping the pet warm and dry.

All bedding should be changed about once a week, stale food removed and cages washed and dried.

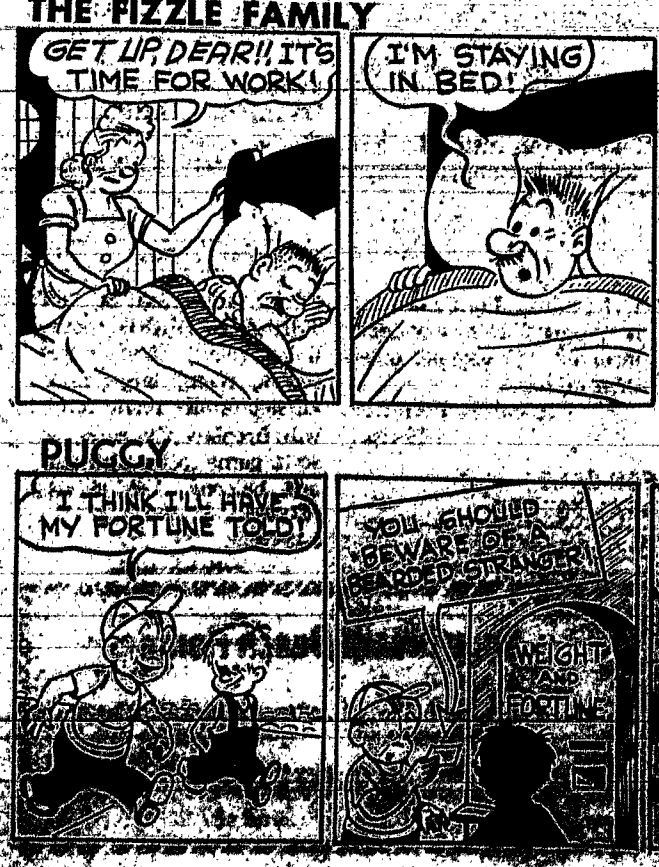

Because a rodent's teeth grow throughout its lifetime, short lengths of hard wood should always be in the cage for your pet to gnaw on.

If you do not allow your pet to wear down its teeth, the teeth may overlap and cause difficulty in eating.

When you do not provide the proper material for gnawing, you'll notice your pet chewing on the cage bars or exercise wheel in a determined effort to keep the front teeth the proper length.

Rodents have few medical problems when the basic needs of food, water and proper housing are filled.

However, since their normal life span is so short, three to four years at most, it is best to buy a young animal - about eight weeks old - if you desire one for a pet.

ASK DOCTOR HIPPOCRATES

BY EUGENE SCHOENFELD, M.D.

Dear Dr. Schoenfeld:

I am 30 and ever since I can remember, I have been attracted to adolescent boys (especially) and girls under the age of 19.

I am no more attracted to fully mature men than the next guy. In other words, grown men don't turn me on at all. Adult women up to about age 30 generally turn me on only slightly, although an occasional woman really knocks me out.

I find myself leading two lives - one with teenagers and the other, the every day adult world. You can understand the problems that my desires (which, incidentally, are very strong) cause me.

I consider myself an intelligent aware person who knows himself very well. I refuse to "adapt" and settle for someone who can only partially satisfy me that I can "conform" to society. I feel if I did this I would be swindling myself.

Am I sick or just courageous enough to act out my own fantasies?

ANSWER: You are already swindling yourself. Some factor in your emotional development prevents you from fully enjoying the company of mature individuals, as well as younger people.

Since you are intelligent and aware you should consider some form of counseling to help expand your potential for social as well as other forms of intercourse.

Although you can't recognize it now, you are giving yourself a bad deal. If the teenagers you mention are below the age of consent, you are "courageous" only if risking jail or the chance of taking a bullet in the head from the gun of an irate parent ranks as some sort of courage.

Dear Dr. Schoenfeld:

For a long time it has seemed strange to me that VD education focuses almost totally on cures and hardly at all on prevention.

Specifically, is it not a fact that washing the genitals is a fairly good preventative? That's what I wrote in a term

Pulpit Points

By DR. L. S. WALKER

"God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, Hath, in these last days spoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also he made the worlds: Who being the brightness of His glory, and the express image of His person, and upholding all things by the word of his power, when he had by himself purged our sins, sat down on the right hand of the majesty on high" (Heb. 1:1-3).

The incomparable Christ is our Saviour and Lord! He came from the bosom of the Father to the bosom of a woman.

He put on humanity that we might put on divinity.

He became the Son of man that we might become the sons of God.

He came from heaven to earth that we might go from earth to heaven.

He left the region where the rivers never freeze, winds never blow, frosts never bite, flowers never fade; where there are no undertakers, no doctors are needed, because no one is ever sick; where no graves haunt, death never comes, and where no funerals are ever conducted.

He lived in poverty and was reared in obscurity; only once did he ever cross the boundaries of his small country.

He had no wealth or political influence, training or education, and His parents knew nothing of the niceties of social traditions.

In infancy He startled a king; in boyhood puzzled the wise; in manhood ruled the course of nature.

He healed the multitudes without medicine, and made
